

- What kinds of information about yourself are you giving away when you use apps like Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, and Snapchat?

While looking at my activity in Instagram and meta control center, I see that my location is obviously compromised. The timestamps on my location are concerning, and my interests on those apps are also being used to push advertisements to me.

- What information did you find in the Personal Information and Privacy section on Google?

Same aspects apply here. I see that my location is still compromised and when I was looking through my data I saw there are time stamps of when I was at these locations. I noticed that when I searched images there was a location tracking on those but just when I visited URLs.

- Did you find any information about yourself when you googled your name? Do you have a common name that gives you lots of results or an uncommon one that nets you fewer?

I did not find any information about me when I searched my name. I have a very broad name and it is pretty common. I am a music artist and I came up right away when I searched SPOOKY GLOOM but as far as my birth name nothing came up at all and I went through a few pages of results.

- What two sites did you try? Did you find any additional information about yourself? Was it correct? Is there a way to have the entry removed from the site?

www.spokeo.com and www.whitepages.com are the two sites I used. The information on white pages was a bit brief and was limited. But for spokeo that information they have of me is a bit concerning. They have a lot of info on me and to only pay 95 cents to unlock my full report of information is quite messed up in my opinion I'll have to contact them to get that information removed but this was a very useful assignment. For my information to be removed I have to email spokeo with a link of my report and request that it be removed from their site.
